Await Word of Local People

Mrs. Attfield and Daughters Reported Safely Ashore From Athenia

Relatives of local people who were aboard the sunken liner Athenia today anxiously awaited word that they were safe, as friends and neighbors assured them it was yet too early to worry seriously, that necessarily in such times it would be extremely difficult for the survivors to get messages across the Atlantic, with the cables jammed.

Among the Victorians on the torpedoed liner were:

Sir Richard Lake, 79, and Lady Lake, 1280 Newport Avenue.

Mrs. E. A. (Kathleen) Williams, 63, 3749 Savannah Avenue.

Mrs. Henry T. Attfield and her daughters, Grace and Lona Marie, 2508 Orchard Street.

Mrs. B. K. Garvice, Blenkinsop Road.

From Duncan, Mrs. Mary E. Dobson.

Word was received over Canadian Press wires from Greenock that Mrs. Attfield and her daughters were safely ashore.

REPORTED IN HOSPITAL

A Canadian radio station, carried the report Sir Richard and Lady Lake were in hospital in Galway, but news services did not verify the report.

Mrs. D. B. F. Bullen of Langford Lake this morning received a message from her sister, Mrs. G. A. Watson, Vancouver, that the latter's daughter, Helen, who was on the Athenia, was safe, and had landed uninjured at Galway.

W. de Gruchy, Albert Street, feared his wife and son Francis and his wife's sister, Miss Moore, Ida Street, may have been aboard the Athenia, but has received no word.

Mrs. W. J. Robertson, 3271 Doreaster Road, whose husband has been in England, thought he may also have been on board.

Sir Richard and Lady Lake were returning to Victoria after a visit to England, cut short by the seriousness of the situation last week-end. They had to go to Belfast to make connections with the Athenia. During their visit to England they went to Sir Richard's birthplace, Preston, Lancashire. Lady Lake is the former Dorothy Fletcher of Ottawa and is widely known in women's activities connected with Christ Church Cathedral.

Sir Richard, who was knighted in 1918, entered the British civil service as a youth and served at the Admiralty and in Cyprus before coming to Canada to settle in Saskatchewan in 1883. He was a member of the Northwest Territories Legislative Council, and member of the House of Commons for Qu'Appelle for seven years and Lieutenant-Governor of Saskatchewan during the last war.

He is a brother of Sir Percy Lake, also a resident of Victoria.

'Fog' Hides Paris

PARIS (AP)—German air planes invaded France early today for the first time in the new war as the French land army sought to relax Germany's pressure on Poland by attacking the Siegfried Line of fortifications along the Rhineland frontier.

Sirens wailed in Paris at 3.35 this morning (1.35 p.m. Monday

P.S.T.) but the planes did not appear over the city. They were understood to have passed over Charleville in the Ardennes Department of northern France, near the Belgian border.

Soon after the alarm first sounded, an artificial fog was released by Paris anti-aircraft defence forces. It obscured a bright moon and hid Paris. The alarm was lifted at 7.05 a.m.

Feverish Buying Skyrockets Stocks

New York Stock Exchange experienced the most spectacular upsurge in its history today, as resumption of trading after the holiday found a feverish urge to buy.

Stocks—particularly steels, non-ferrous metals, oils, chemicals and machinery makers—jumped from $2 to as high as $19 a share today over Saturday's closing prices. There were one or two wide movers around $25.

Dow Jones averages closed at 148.09, up 10.00. Turnover of 6,000,000 shares, the biggest since July 21, 1933.

Wheat again bounded the limit permitted in a day's trading of five cents a bushel at Chicago, Winnipeg and Minneapolis, and raw materials generally surged upward, both food and industrial.

Mrs. Garvice left for England early in June. She and her husband were living on Blenkinsop Road at the time, but Mr. Garvice has since moved to Cordova Bay.

U.S. NEUTRALITY PROCLAIMED TODAY

Canada Not Yet Mentioned in Act Signed By President Roosevelt

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt proclaimed the neutrality of the United States today.

He signed, and State Secretary Hull countersigned, a proclamation of more than 4,000 words establishing an extensive list of regulations designed to keep American citizens from projecting the United States into the European war.

The proclamation, in specifically naming the countries at war, omitted Canada and the Union of South Africa.

An official explained these omissions, in the view of the United States government, had not yet formally declared war against Germany.

Commons Adjourning

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons today he hoped all outstanding business could be disposed of by Thursday, when he would propose adjournment until next Wednesday.

Province Pledges Fullest Aid

Government Acts With Ottawa In Meeting Emergency

The British Columbia government today was quietly organizing to give the fullest assistance to Ottawa in steps to meet the war situation, but, for the moment, revealed no further actions than the anti-sabotage and disaster precaution brigades already under way.

Premier T. D. Pattullo, who returned yesterday from a 5,000-mile flight into the Arctic regions, telegraphed Prime Minister Mackenzie King as follows:

"On my return this morning from an aerial trip covering Mackenzie Basin, Yukon and Alaska, I hasten to assure you that our provincial government will co-operate with you to fullest possible extent in war which is being thrust upon us. I know that you will not hesitate to call upon us for anything which we can possibly do to be of assistance."

There has been talk a special session of the Legislature but the Premier said today he does not see the immediate need of calling the Legislature. In the ordinary course the House will meet about the end of October.

REVISE BUDGET

It is clear, however, that the war will mean a drastic revision of the provincial budget, now in the early stage. Ordinary services will undoubtedly be reduced to a minimum as an economy measure. Some extraordinary appropriations may be needed.

The government acted immediately today to protect the property of soldiers from tax sale proceedings. Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, announced that the property of enlisted men will be exempt from the provincial tax sale which opens on September 27. And provision is made that where property is sold for taxes and the owner subsequently enlists, the property will not be allowed to revert to the crown.

Suspend Air Service

LONDON (CP)—The Ministry of Information today announced temporary suspension of airmail service via France to North and West Africa, South America and Indo-China.

RUSH TO WED

TORONTO (CP)—An unprecedented rush for marriage licenses started today following circulation of a rumor, described as "absolutely false," that no more licenses would be issued because of the war.

"It is by far the worst rush I have ever seen," said Frank Dunlop, issuer of licenses at City Hall. About noon the rush was reported "under control."

Bremen Mexico Bound?

MEXICO CITY (AP)—With seven German steamships already tied up in Mexican ports, there were reports today the $20,000,000 German trans-Atlantic liner Bremen also might be heading into neutral Mexican waters for refuge.

Whereabouts of the Bremen have been a mystery since the vessel left New York almost a week ago.

The German passenger ship Orinoco, the German oil-tanker Emmy Friedrich and the German freighters Rhein, Idarwald and Phrygia are anchored at Tampico. The liner Columbus, after disembarking passengers who LIVERPOOL (CP)—The Cunard Line announced today that its steamship Bosnia had been sunk by a submarine and her crew of 23 rescued by a Norwegian tanker.

A message from the 2,407-ton

Bosnia, interrupted before completion, gave her position as about 100 miles off the Scottish coast. The tanker was reported proceeding to Lisbon with the rescued.

One death aboard the Bosnia was reported, that of a fireman named Woods.

The Bosnia was set ablaze by gunfire and then torpedoed, the company announced.

Polish Capital Target Of German Air Raids

WARSAW (AP)—While Polish strategists shortened their defence lines under intensified German attack in all sectors today, Warsaw underwent two air raids.

Several times during the morning attack the German airmen flew directly over the heart of the capital without dropping bombs. They confined their activities to the suburbs and military objectives.

The alarm sounded at 8.30 a.m. (11.30 p.m. P.S.T. Monday) and 35 minutes later the "all clear" signal was given.

The courses traveled by attacking planes caused observers to conclude they were shuttling back and forth between Austrian, Slovak and other German areas in daily trips, reloading at each stop and dropping bombs en route.

Increasing numbers of Warsaw inhabitants are leaving for the country. They pack their belongings into any sort of conveyance available. The largest numbers were traveling eastward and southeastward.

British, French Guns Open Fire Along German Front

WARSAW (CP Havas)—The official Polish Telegraph News Agency announced tonight that 30 Polish planes had carried out a successful air raid on Berlin.

All the Polish planes returned to their base after the attack on the German capital, the news agency said.

By the Canadian Press
Great Britain and France sought for military openings today to force Germany to divert troops from the Polish front.

Along the German fortifications on the western front the French army felt its way to find where a telling blow might be delivered. "Movements develop normally" was the terse word from the war ministry in Paris.

British bombers inflicted "severe damage" on two German battleships at the entrance to the Kiel Canal. "Some casualties" were admitted in London. German claims ranged from five to 12 planes shot down.

The German army reported capture of the Polish cities of Katowice and Chorzow in the Silesian iron and coal producing region.

Warsaw heard reports the Polish government might seek safety from aid raids by moving to another city. German planes made two raids today.

From Paris came reports of disorders in German cities and in Bosnia Moravia.

South Africa severed diplomatic relations with Germany, turning Prime Minister Hertzog, advocate of neutrality, out of office. General Jan Smuts likely will be the new Premier.

Canadian and other survivors of the torpedoed liner Athenia were landed at Greenock, Scotland, and Galway, Ireland; indications were many passengers of the ship had lost their lives.

In Ottawa the Canadian cabinet met to discuss the war situation. Rumors were heard that J. L. Ralston, former Defence Minister, might accept a portfolio. It was reported he would head a new Department of Supply. The Conservative party met in caucus and promised co-operation.

In New York financial and commodity markets moved upward under the impetus of widespread buying. Grain soared in Winnipeg and Chicago.

Continued Italian neutrality was indicated as two of Italy's finest liners prepared to sail on Atlantic voyages.

Shells Aimed At Wireless Says Athenia Master

GALWAY, Eire (CP)—Capt. James Cook, master of the liner Athenia, said on his arrival here today his ship "was hit by a torpedo Sunday which went through the galley and into the engine room, causing heavy loss of life."

The captain was brought here by the Norwegian steamer Knut Nelson with 430 others survivors of the first submarine disaster of the European war.

Capt. Cook is well known among the shipping fraternity of Victoria. He was last here April 11, 1937, as master of Ss. Gracia. Shortly afterwards, he was transferred to the trans-Atlantic passenger service, succeeding Capt.

William Rennie in charge of the bridge of the Athenia.)

Capt. Cook said that immediately after the torpedo was fired, the submarine rose to the surface and shelled the Athenia.

"One shell carried away the main mast," he related.

"It was evidently aimed at the wireless room, but missed its mark."

He called witnesses to tell newspapermen the torpedo was fired at a range of 800 to 1,000 yards on the portside of the vessel.

Capt. Cook said he did not know how many were dead or injured. He added "there was no panic whatever on board the ship. The passengers faced danger bravely."

futile. No one prevented occupation of the Rhineland, achievement of Anschluss (with Austria) and bloodless incorporation of the Sudeten in the Reich.

"Roosevelt offered you peace with honor as well as the prospect of material well-being. Instead your government has consigned you to the massacre, the misery and the privations of a war you cannot hope to win."

"It is not we who were deceived, but you. Long years of iron censorship have concealed from you truths which were known even to noncivilized peoples."

"How otherwise could one have dared to represent as hostile encirclement the collaboration of peoples who are friends of peace for the maintenance of that peace?"

"We cherish no hostility against you, the German people. Nazi censorship has hidden from you the fact that you have not the wherewithal to wage a long war."

"We are too strong to be shattered by attacks and we can fight you pitilessly until you are totally exhausted."

"You German people have the right to demand peace now and at any time. We, too, want peace and we are ready to conclude it with any sincerely pacific German government."

'Not Our War' Germans Say

LONDON (AP via Radio)—"It is not our war," German workers were described as saying today in a message sent over news tickers in London.

"We have nothing in common with the present regime; the German workers and peasants do not want war and have nothing in common with the Nazi

Survivors Tell Tragic Stories Of Scenes After Torpedo Blast

S.S. Athenia sunk by German submarine.

GREENOCK, Scotland (AP)—Shaken and weeping, 600 survivors of the torpedoed British liner Athenia arrived here today, two of them declaring the German submarine which sent the liner to the bottom fired two shells at her while lifeboats were being lowered.

One of the survivors, Mrs. Elizabeth Turner of Toronto, said she heard the two shells when she regained consciousness after the first shock of the torpedo had shaken the ship.

Mrs. Turner, returning to Canada after a holiday visit to her parents-in-law at Greenock, said that "men who were lying dead quite near me must have been killed by the explosion."

"The lifeboat into which I was put capsized, but was righted again and all the people managed to get back again," she added.

Two hundred of those arriving here were injured. The survivors had nightmare memories of the war's first submarine disaster.

Glasgow mobilized hospitals and nursing homes to accommodate the injured and other agencies to care for other refugees, many of them thinly clad and weak from exposure to the winds of the north Atlantic.

As the rescue work went on no one could say definitely how many had been killed or drowned in the disaster.

REFUGEES SHELLED
Survivors said as the lifeboats loaded with survivors rowed away from the stricken ship the submarine came to the surface and shelled the refugees twice.

The Canadian woman who testified as to the shells fired at the liner was one of the group of survivors brought here aboard two British warships.

She corroborated a statement by John McEwan of Glasgow, another survivor, who said the U-boat fired two shells at the ship as the passengers and crew were taking to the lifeboats. McEwan said he had heard that about 90 persons were killed when the boat was attacked.

McEwan said "the conduct of the passengers was magnificent. There was a great deal of smoke when the torpedo struck our vessel."

"We learned afterwards that a woman on whom an operation had just been performed had been left on the Athenia. One of the lifeboats went back and took her off."

"I saw the sub quite distinctly and I estimate it was a quarter of a mile away."

"Every lifeboat was away an hour after we were struck. The liner first of all listed and then righted herself and began to go slowly down by the head."

Other survivors said emphatically the Athenia was sunk by a submarine and that the submarine fired two shells at the sinking vessel.

One member of the crew, Robert Gillan of Glasgow saw a 12-year-old girl lying dead in a deckchair—her body torn by shell splinters.

SAW PERISCOPE
An officer said he saw the periscope of the submarine just before the torpedo struck.

Other officers and members of the crew said they saw a line of smoke rising from the water off the port side just before the disaster. The smoke described a "complete circle over the surface of the water."

As they came ashore the survivors crowded about the few available telephones, anxious to inform their friends of their safe arrival in Ireland.

Among them was Dr. John Kirk of Boston, Mass., who said, "my wife was killed in the explosion, and all I want to know now is whether my two children who were traveling with us are safe."

Ruth E. Strauss of New York said, "I saw a flash on the port side of the Athenia about 800 to 1,000 yards away. The torpedo struck in a few seconds and was followed by a shell. The ship was still afloat when we left the scene five hours later."

Ten people severely injured were transferred to tenders and taken to the Galway Hospital by Irish army doctors and staff nurses. After them came the rest, women and children wearing rough work clothes loaned them by sailors aboard the Knut Nelson—over the scanty garb in which they escaped the stricken ship.

Worn by exposure and weak from lack of sleep and irregular diet, the first survivors all told the same story.

They were asleep when awakened by a terrific explosion which shook the ship and sent children in their berths sprawling onto cabin floors. They were ordered to abandon ship and take to the lifeboats, a movement which was carried out in "perfect order."

MOTHER WENT DOWN

Perhaps the saddest sight of all was nine-year-old Roy Barrington of Toronto. His mother went down with the Athenia.

Fifteen-year-old Brenda Jackson and her brother Thomas, 13, of Detroit, told of being awakened when the torpedo struck. Brenda said:

"I didn't try to change my pajamas, but helped Tommy up evening dress, when the ship was attacked."

A smashing blow from the propeller of a Norwegian rescue ship shattered one of the Athenia's lifeboats and cost the lives of several women in the boat, a seaman of the Athenia said.

"After the first explosion, the submarine came to the surface about a hundred yards off," he explained.

"All the Athenia's lifeboats were launched within 1½ hours, and three other members of the crew and myself had charge of one boat containing 52 women."

"When the Norwegian boat came to our rescue we drew alongside and made fast, but our boat got under her stern and was struck by the propeller, which knocked the bottom out of our boat."

"Several of the people were killed. I drifted about in the water for three hours in my lifebelt before I was picked up by the yacht Southern Cross."

FELL FROM DAVITS

A third-class steward on the Athenia said: "I took the 10 people at my table to boat stations, and we all managed to get into a lifeboat. I saw one boat with 70 passengers in it fall from the davits into the water. Most of the occupants were women and children, and the majority of them were injured."

When the first of the two destroyers reached Greenock, its decks crowded with women survivors, it was greeted with cheers. "We had a terrible time and we knew at once what it was," said one survivor.

"We all put on our lifebelts and went to our boat stations. The submarine then dived out of sight and several times during the night when we were in the lifeboats we heard the submarine passing below."

Professor Damon Boynton of Cornell University said:

"I was in a boat 12 hours before I was picked up. I don't want to say anything more except this—I don't like German war tactics."

Many of the women on the first destroyer to dock were without hats or shoes. Several had their arms in slings.

As the destroyer docked the first words from the decks were: "Throw us a newspaper so we can see what's happening." An air raid warden handed up a newspaper.

Canadians Offer Services in War

People of This Country,
Now in England, Will Aid
"In Any Capacity"

LONDON (CP Cable)—More than 1,000 Canadian men and women have called at Canada House since declaration of war Sunday to offer their services "in any capacity."

Husky college boys and veterans of the Great War, either resident here or on holiday, asked to be allowed to help out the Old Country in her hour of need. Scores of others wrote in from provincial centres. Many of these, stranded by the European war, decided to stay and enlist in the British forces after the attack Sunday on the liner Athenia.

Among the applications were a number of your Canadian nurses working in the great London hospitals.

There is Plenty of Sugar

The B.C. Sugar Refining Company's Vancouver plant is working to capacity in an attempt to meet the extraordinary demands of householders over the last few days.

With several ships of raw sugar due to arrive shortly and with adequate stocks of raw sugar on hand there is no occasion for alarm.

There is absolutely no attempt on the part of this Company or of the jobbers and wholesalers of Vancouver to hoard sugar. The present strain is due entirely to the unprecedented demand overtaking the physical capacity to make delivery.

The B.C. Sugar Refining Company assures the people that the stocks of raw sugar on hand are adequate to supply future requirements.

General Gort Named to Lead British Forces

LONDON (CP) — General Viscount Gort, V.C., a soldier whose energy and industry won him the name of "Tiger," and whose valor under fire brought him the Empire's most coveted decoration, has been appointed to lead the British forces in the war against Germany.

His appointment as commander-in-chief of British forces in the field was approved Sunday by the King.

He will embark with the British expeditionary forces for France. No announcement has been made as to the numbers of Britain's first overseas army. Nor has there been any indication as to where the allied forces will strike.

In France he will share the Allied command with his French colleague, Gen. Maurice Gamelin, commander of all French forces. Although no announcement had been made, it is widely predicted that General Gamelin will be appointed generalissimo of allied forces, as Marshal Ferdinand Foch was in the late years of the Great War.

As chief of imperial general staff, Lord Gort will be replaced by General Sir Edmund Ironside. This appointment makes Sir Edmund the professional colleague of war secretary Leslie Hore-Belisha in the administration of the armed forces.

Sir Edmund will know how best the British war machine can help the Polish forces in resisting the German invasion, for he recently visited Warsaw and went over Poland's defence problems with Marshal Edward Smigly-Rydz and members of the Polish general staff.

Empire Air Mail Is Suspended

OTTAWA (CP) — Suspension of the British Empire air mail service for Empire points beyond England was announced today by postal headquarters. All mail for such points will now go by surface means at the former Empire postage rates of 3c for the first ounce and 2c for each additional ounce.

Dispatch of mails for New Zealand, Australia, Hongkong and other places will be resumed from Victoria and Vancouver by boat.

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor will officially open the fair at 2:15 Saturday afternoon, September 9, in the Main Building. Members of the Provincial government, civic dignitaries and officials from other fairs have been invited to attend.

Saturday afternoon has been designated Children's Day inasmuch as all rides, sideshows and other amusements will be available to them at a nominal rate.

Judging will commence on Saturday and continue until the following Friday. More than 17,000 entries are expected to be in place for the official opening.

DEAN FORESEES HITLER DEFEAT

Evil He Represents
 Cannot Triumph, Says
 Very Rev. S. H. Elliott

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor attended service at Christ Church Cathedral on Sunday morning. Members of the first and second battalions of the Canadian Scottish Regiment were on parade, and the congregation overflowed the accommodation. The Precentor conducted prayers, and the sermon was preached by Very Rev. Dean Spencer Elliott.

At the first thought of war, the Dean said, one remembered the horror and terror of it, which had been emphasized by many writers and films. A wise man must face facts, and they would not minimize such an aspect of war.

But there was the sense of moral victory in championing the cause of righteousness against a great evil. This sense of justice had no relation to any hatred and bitterness. In the last war the British troops were singularly free from any sense of hate such as was exhibited by some further from the scenes of action. In the present case they believed that many German people themselves regretted the Hitler regime, and it was possible that they would gladly cross to the other side of the line when opportunity arose.

There was no shadow of doubt about the issue of the conflict, for it was unthinkable that such evil as Hitler represented could finally triumph.

In the last war many Christian soldiers had testified that they had a wonderful sense of being uplifted in spirit by a power which they believed was the presence of Christ. They called Him "The White Comrade." God had set a limit to what His faithful servants had to endure, and gave strength beyond all expectation to meet the agonies of wounding and anxiety and bereavement. There was no doubt about this, for it was a matter of experience.

Concluding, the Dean urged that those "on the home front" should show complete unselfishness, and a sense of proportion; forgetting their own immediate interests in thinking of those of others. They had often prayed to be worthy of those who died in the last war, and now they must desire to be worthy of all who were making great sacrifices today.

British Cruiser Captures Freighter

Olinda of Hamburg
 Line Taken
 Speeding for Brazil

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay — The Uruguayan coastguard headquarters here said yesterday the German wheat laden freighter Olinda had been captured by the British cruiser Ajax of the Americas and West Indies squadron and not sunk, as earlier reported.

First reports that the Olinda was sunk came from the British tanker San Gerardo, which brought the Olinda's crew to Montevideo. The Olinda is a 4,576-ton vessel operated by the Hamburg-South American Line.

A shipping chart compiled last night from the presumed positions of merchant shipping placed two other German vessels — the Schwaben and Afrika — north of the Olinda's last position, apparently trying to reach the shelter of Santos, Brazil.

Stan Leonard Alberta Champ

EDMONTON (CP) — Stan Leonard of Vancouver shot a brilliant birdie four on the last hole to win the Alberta open golf championship yesterday. His 72 total of 286 was two strokes better than that of Fred Wood of Vancouver, the defending champion.

Henry Martell of Edmonton took the amateur honors in finishing third with 292. Wilf Greenwood of Regina was fourth with 294.

Actually the title was decided on the last hole. Wood, two strokes behind Leonard after the first 36 holes, was playing with Leonard and finally caught up with him by shooting a par four to Leonard's five on the 71st.

Driving first off the 72nd, Wood sliced his ball into the woods and was forced to chip his second back to the fairway. Leonard played safe by using an iron off the tee, sent his second into a bunker in front of the green, then played a brilliant explosion shot that left him an easy putt for his birdie.

Canada to Check Profiteering

OTTAWA (CP) — Three Dominion Government officials will form the wartime Prices and Trade Board created to prevent profiteering. Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of Labor, announced tonight.

H. B. McKinnon, commissioner of tariff, will be chairman, the other board members will be David Sim, commissioner of excise, and F. A. McGregor, commissioner of the Combines Investigation Act.

Paper Money To Be Issued in Germany

BERLIN (AP) — The "rentenmark," paper bills of one, two and five marks, are to make their appearance again in Germany "to relieve" the need for small change. Created in 1923 during the inflation period following the Great War, although not redeemable in gold, the bills had a psychological influence in creating confidence.

War Declaration Brought Relief

Hitlerism Must Go Is
 Feeling in England, Says
 Canadian Observer

By W. RUPERT DAVIES
 LONDON (CP Cable) — I have never seen anything to compare with the magnificent spirit displayed by the English people since Prime Minister Chamberlain announced at 11:15 a.m. Sunday that England was at war with Germany.

When Mr. Chamberlain broadcast his message it was as if the nation heaved a great sigh of relief. The people of this country are determined to rid the world of Hitlerism and the cruelty and deceit it stands for, once and for all. If Mr. Chamberlain had suggested any more appeasement measures I am sure he would have been angrily kicked out of office.

Hitlerism and Nazism as world forces have got to go. That is the sentiment expressed by people in England to whom I have talked during the past two days. They have been long suffering in the cause of peace. They have tried to satisfy Hitler's lust for power by appeasement; they have made themselves believe him when he said he had no more territorial ambitions after the Sudeten are of Czechoslovakia was ceded him and the Czechs sacrificed to maintain the peace of Europe; they saw him give himself the lie in March; they have seen him give himself the lie again over his Polish claim.

Churchill Back As Navy Head In War Cabinet

LONDON (CP) — A war cabinet of nine members to direct Great Britain's struggle against the German Reich was formed by Prime Minister Chamberlain less than five hours after war was declared.

In the Great War more than two years elapsed before a similar, compact directorate was set up.

In today's war cabinet Mr. Chamberlain called two of the leading figures of the struggle to 1914-18 — Winston Churchill and Lord Hankey.

Mr. Churchill was returned to his old post of First Lord of the Admiralty, which he held before and during the first year of the Great War.

Lord Hankey, who as Sir

Maurice Hankey, secretary to the war cabinet, was one of David Lloyd George's right-hand men and was entrusted with many important missions, was made minister without portfolio. Anthony Eden, former Foreign Secretary, returned to the government as State Secretary for the Dominions. Although not in the war cabinet, he will have special access to the inner group so he "may be in the best position to maintain contact between the war cabinet and the Dominions."

The war cabinet, which held its first meeting, Sunday, follows: Prime Minister and First Lord of the Treasury, Neville Chamberlain.

Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir John Simon.

Foreign Secretary, Viscount Halifax.

Minister for Co-ordination of Defence, Lord Chatfield.

First Lord of the Admiralty, Winston Churchill.

Secretary for War, Leslie Hore-Belisha.

Secretary for Air, Sir Kingsley Wood.

Lord Privy Seal, Sir Samuel Hoare.

Minister without portfolio, Lord Hankey.

Outside the war cabinet, Sir John Anderson, previously Lord Privy Seal and Minister for Civilian Defence, succeeds Sir Samuel Hoare as Home Secretary and Minister of Internal Security.

Earl Stanhope, succeeded at the Admiralty by Mr. Churchill, becomes Lord President of the Council, relieving Viscount Runciman.

Sir Thomas Inskip goes from the Dominion office to the Wool-sack. His appointment as Lord Chancellor in place of Lord Maughan will involve his elevation to the peerage.

Ambassadors Talk With Ciano in Rome

ROME (AP) — Count Galeazzo

Ciano, foreign minister, again conferred with the British and French ambassadors today as Italy pursued her policy of watchful waiting in the face of an apparently imminent European war.

The British ambassador talked with Count Ciano about 30 minutes. Shortly afterward Ambassador Poncet of France called at the foreign ministry.

Secretary for War, Leslie Hore-Belisha.

Secretary for Air, Sir Kingsley Wood.

Lord Privy Seal, Sir Samuel Hoare.

Minister without portfolio, Lord Hankey.

Outside the war cabinet, Sir John Anderson, previously Lord Privy Seal and Minister for Civilian Defence, succeeds Sir Samuel Hoare as Home Secretary and Minister of Internal Security.

Canadian Nickel

ADDS STRENGTH, PREVENTS BREAKAGE

TWO MIGHTY DRUMS of Nickel Cast Iron turning on 37-ton shafts of Nickel Steel, wind in the cables that hoist ore, men and materials from a Canadian mine. Nickel imparts to the iron and steel the exceptional strength required in this service.

A fisherman winds in his line on a light-weight reel. It is made of "Monel" (⅔ Nickel plus ⅓ Copper) for strength and corrosion resistance.

In all branches of peaceful industry throughout the world, new economies are being effected, new engineering difficulties are being overcome, through the use of Canadian Nickel and its alloys. And still the search for new uses for Canadian Nickel is actively carried on by International Nickel engineers. For Nickel is of no value to Canada until it is sold.

New uses for Canadian Nickel in world industry call for increased production from Canada's Nickel mines and plants. This results in the employment of still more men and the purchase of still more machinery, supplies, freight, lumber and power from all parts of the Dominion.

The Athenia

GOEBBELS' PROPAGANDA WILL NOT assist Germany's case with neutral nations by persisting that the British liner Athenia was sunk by a floating mine. From her captain, officers, and several survivors, have come definite statements that not only was the disaster caused by a submarine but also that after the explosion in her vitals had taken its ghastly toll two shells were fired at her from the enemy craft.

Adolf Hitler will rue the day when he added the sinking of this unarmed passenger ship to his unprovoked attack on Poland. He has begun his war against free peoples with the mistake which Germany made before. But historical fact seems to mean nothing to the archpriest of "Lebensraum." German Junkerdom started active commercial submarine warfare before the Great War was many months old. The sinking of the Lusitania on May 7, 1915, staggered the world, and the unrestricted underwater campaign which began in 1917 helped to seal Germany's fate.

The head of the Third Reich, however, has out-Hohenzollerned Wilhelm II and he will be extremely lucky, when the forces of right have dealt with the system he represents, if he is able to find a haven of retreat half as comfortable as that in which the advocate of Germany's "place in the sun" now watches the progress of events from Doorn.

Sparring For Position

GERMANY'S WAR MACHINE IS ADVANCING in various parts of Poland. It is being stubbornly resisted. Nothing has happened so far which has occasioned much surprise. Up to a point Hitler's legions may repeat successes on similar lines to those achieved in Belgium in the early days of the great conflict in 1914. But there came a day when General von Kluge's right wing met its match. And a 1939 "battle of the Marne" may come sooner than expected.

Britain's aerial attack on German war vessels in the vicinity of the Kiel Canal, information about which is somewhat sketchy and brief, is reported officially to have been attended by satisfactory results. Besides the damage inflicted, the importance of this trial trip of British bombers appears to lie in the fact that it has to some extent punctured frequent Nazi boasts of the impregnability of Germany's aerial defences. It is obviously too early, however, to reach any reliable conclusion on this point.

Latest news from Paris is that French troops have undertaken some operations against the Siegfried Line, testing its strength and general effectiveness, one of the objects being to discover what type of attack is best calculated to create a diversion of pressure from the Polish front. Experts consider the French Maginot Line a "perfect base" from which France can take the offensive, while her crack bombers and fighting planes can leave their underground airports and fly to the great industrial area, of which Essen is the centre, within the hour—and to Berlin in less than two.

Several days may elapse before the western battle front becomes clearly marked. In the meantime the spirit of the peoples of both Britain and France seems to have been progressively in the ascendant since Germany's action in Poland ended the "war of nerves."

'We Shall Prevail'

HIS MAJESTY KING GEORGE'S MESSAGE to the Empire was a model of sincerity and straightforward appeal. It seemed particularly intimate to us in Canada because it is only a comparatively few weeks since he was among us. We have grown accustomed to his voice, the ring of genuineness in it, and on no previous occasion has it struck such an unmistakably resolute note as it did on Sunday.

No fair-minded citizen of the world can quibble with the King's plain statement that "we have been forced into a conflict . . . to meet the challenge of a principle, which, if it were to prevail, would be fatal to any civilized order in the world." Nor did His Majesty overemphasize the truth when he voiced this expression of view:

"It is a principle which permits a state in the selfish pursuit of power, to disregard its treaties and its solemn pledges, which, sanctions the use of force or threat of force against the sovereignty and independence of other states."

"Such a principle, stripped of all disguise, is surely the mere primitive doctrine that might is right. And if this principle were established through the world, the freedom of our own country and of the whole British Commonwealth of Nations would be in danger."

It is no light undertaking once again to draw the sword and lead the way to a fight in which preservation of everything free peoples the world over hold dear is inextricably involved. His Majesty well knows "the task will be hard," that "there may be dark days ahead," but as one who is constantly watching over the destinies of one-quarter of the peoples of the world he will go through those days with the knowledge that the cause in which the British and French empires are engaged is just—and that "we shall prevail."

Back at His Old Job

ALTHOUGH THERE HAVE BEEN numerous occasions since Munich when he and Mr. Winston Churchill have crossed verbal swords in the House of Commons, Prime Minister Chamberlain added a new pillar of strength to his cabinet when he called the member for the Epping division of Essex to take over his old job as First Lord of the Admiralty. Millions in Britain remember with gratitude that it was Mr. Churchill's foresight which kept the seas clear of large enemy fighting craft from the day war broke out—excepting, of course, when the German fleet came out in the middle of 1916 and fought the battle of Jutland. The course of history might have been very different, however, if the Grand Fleet had not received advance orders in the waning days of July more than a quarter of a century ago.

Mr. Churchill's inclusion in the reorganized cabinet, of course, will be a bitter pill for Germany to swallow. It has been well said that to Churchill, the military man, the loss of Czechoslovakia was bad enough; to Churchill, the political moralist, it was frightful. He feared for the fate of democracy; he feared lest Britain would fall "into the power orbit and influence of Nazi Germany." Cried he again and again: "The blow has been struck." To him the Hitlerian Reich "is a place where a small band of ferocious men rose from the depths to dictatorship, there to take away the guarantee of life, law and liberty." He contrasted everything for which the British Empire had stood with "that power which burns Christian ethics, which cheers its onward progress with barbarous paganism, which vaults the spirit of aggression and conquest, which derives strength and pleasure from perverted persecution and uses the threat of murderous force." That power, he warned the British House of Commons as he brooded over the "enormity" of Czechoslovakia, "cannot ever be a trusted friend of British democracy."

The man who gave expression to the foregoing is the man in charge of the British Navy, the man who will see that, as far as lies within the capacity of one brain, nothing is left to chance in the grim struggle ahead. But Mr. Churchill is a generous foe. Thirty-eight years ago in his maiden speech, he said of the Boers, whom he had been fighting: "It must be made clear to these brave and unhappy men that, whenever they are ready to recognize that their small independence must be merged with the larger liberties of the Empire, there will be a full guarantee for the security of their property and religion, and an assurance of equal rights." Hence, Mr. Churchill is an implacable enemy of the Nazi cult, not of the German people.

Steady as Well as Ready

IN A TIME OF CRISIS, STEADINESS IS as important as readiness. A nation's defences are no stronger than her morale. A contribution to national morale is made by those who remain calm in the face of danger, who meet an emergency with coolness as well as courage, who refuse to yield to panic.

It is not the calmness of indifference that is needed, but the calmness of self-control in the face of a known and appreciated crisis. Hysteria is the enemy of morale. Self-possession is its buttress. Canadians can strengthen Canada and strengthen Britain by refusing to yield to fear. The courage of the nation is simply the courage of its individuals.

Fear is infectious. Bravery is infectious. One man can start a stampede by crying "fire" and rushing for the exit. One man can calm an audience by smiling in the face of danger and suggesting quiet and orderly departure. There is no need to be blind to what events may mean. But there is need of measuring up to the situation with calmness, hope and courage.

The only way of stopping the use of terror on an international scale is to face it.

Price of "Peace Handbooks," issued by the British government, has been cut from four shillings to sixpence. Closing-out sale, as it were.

We suppose Stalin has not been in the least embarrassed over all those Russian generals and commissars he shot for treason and conspiracy because they favored rapprochement and alliance with Berlin.

Canada's Contribution

From Toronto Star

The nature of Canada's contribution will depend upon the development of events; upon what Britain most needs, and upon the probable duration of hostilities. Canada is as much interested in the maintenance of democracy in this world as any other nation. The fact that she is separated by an ocean from what would be the main theatre of conflict does not alter her responsibility.

The task which faces her rulers is to secure, as far as possible, a united Canada in whatever course may be followed. Private gain will have to be subordinated to public advantage. There will have to be a mobilization of industry in the interests of an efficient prosecution of any war which may materialize. That war may be avoided has been the hope and prayer of all Canadians alike. And Britain has done everything to avoid it. Her statesmen have put their pride in their pockets and have waited upon Mr. Hitler in his own country in efforts to maintain peace.

No country is more desirous of world peace than Canada. None should be more wholeheartedly behind Britain now that war has come.

Loose Ends

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

TRIUMPH

MY RECORD, I am proud to report, remains unbroken. There has been, of course, nothing approaching it in the whole history of this country. I have heard rumors of an Indian named Snake-in-the-Grass who did pretty well back in the early days of the last century, but he never was in my class. They say among the older pioneers of Duncan that he once went nine years without catching a salmon and so great was his reputation that they made him a great chief and named the Tommy Mack salmon spoon after him.

I was always a little envious of Tommy Mack, Snake-in-the-Grass, and long ago I set out to beat him. Of course, some fellows up at Cowichan Bay have accused me of trickery. They said I cheated by fishing with the wrong lures, at the wrong depth, at the wrong times. They said it was impossible for a man to go five years without catching a salmon, if he were honest.

That, of course, is mere jealousy. My long campaign has been waged with absolute honesty, absolutely pure and absolute love. I have fished scrupulously with the best tackle, from the best boats, with the best guides, in the best places. And now I am able to announce an all-time record, unknown before in history. I have gone 10 years now without ever getting a bite.

Mind you, I escaped by a hair last Sunday. My record trembled, for a moment, in the balance. But the salmon, after some hesitation, took the spoon on the other line in our boat, held by my friend Bill. So Bill got the fish and my record was safe. It had passed the 10-year mark. I felt pretty sorry for poor Bill. He never has any luck.

ASCETICS

SOMEHOW I CAN never understand the other fishermen at Cowichan Bay. They go out and, most laboriously, they haul in fish that they don't want, that they have to clean and give away to somebody else who doesn't want them. To me that is the gross and material side of salmon fishing. Naturally of a religious nature, I prefer the religious side.

A true worshipper of the shrine at Cowichan Bay must lead an ascetic life. The alarm clock goes off at a quarter to four. Like a monk in a medieval monastery, the true believer rises instantly from his bed in darkness and, still blind with sleep, pulls on his Cowichan sweater over his pyjamas. He cannot wait for any absurd amenities like dressing properly or washing his face. Still half asleep he staggers down through the darkness to the slippery wharf and falls heavily into a boat and grasps the oars and heads into the gloom. It is purely a religious experience, like a Mohammedan going to Mecca, like a Hindu falling under a Jugernaut.

Some jungle tribes, they say, walk on fire. The Japanese commit hari-kari. The plains Indians have their sun dance and ordeal by flames. The strange mystic cult which inhabits Cowichan Bay is made of sterner stuff. It has four o'clock in the morning courage. And to see those worshippers rowing their boats up and down in the first mists of dawn, to see them working with their wet, icy lines, to see their grim faces set in lines of pain and suffering, to see a fine old Englishman in tweeds rowing his young son of 16, introducing the youth into the true faith, just as the Cowichan Indians used to make their young men climb the cliffs across the Bay, even though most of them died in the attempt—that, I say, is a noble religious experience. It shows you how faith lives on even in these pagan times.

No true believer, of course, partakes of any nourishment before entering the shrine. He does not defile this communion with any carnal appetite. He does not eat until he has caught his fish; though I must confess that a good Samaritan, not a true believer, gave Bill and me a cup of coffee and some sweet, sugar-coated biscuits at 4 a.m. on his launch and we guzzled them as if they were a Christmas dinner. Bill and I haven't fully got religion yet.

I-PLAYED FAIR

WITH TROUT FISHING you get some action. You cast a fly and wade a stream and you usually catch half a dozen fish at least. But there is no religion about that. The ascetics of Cowichan Bay, full of otherworldliness, don't want any such mundane experience. They just want to row about and presently haul in a salmon with a clothesline on a small power derrick. Then they go ashore, numb, with eyes glazed in misery. They have done their duty by their local gods.

Well, I played fair. I tried every kind of lure and weight. I rowed for three hours without stopping. I appealed to an old Indian in a dugout canoe, shouting to him: "Whattamatter no catchem fish?" And he replied: "The difficulty, I think, is the excessive number of gasoline boats in these waters." And finally, my record of 10 years established, I went ashore quietly triumphant—not swaggering but poised and confident. I was the only happy-looking man on the wharf. The others came in dead-eyed, laden with salmon and, in the task of cleansing them, were soon deluged in blood and slime. It is a religion of bloody sacrifice.

The man who rents the boats doesn't appreciate my record. He has tried to ruin it for years. Ah, he said, looking at our tackle, of course you couldn't catch a fish. You had 12 ounces of lead on your line. Nobody could catch a fish with 12 ounces. You must have 11 ounces. He intimidated I was cheating. At Duncan they offered us salmon steaks for breakfast. We ordered ham and eggs.

The Man

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

A FRIEND remarked a whimsically the other day: "If this situation finally results in a major war, the result will be that afterward there will be practically no governments at all. The man-in-the-street will be absolutely convinced that he has more sense than any government. All officials will be regarded as the lowest form of human life, decisions will probably be taken by Gallup polls, and disrespect for the state will be universal."

My friends, who is not a follower of Henry Thoreau, did not think this condition of affairs desirable. He believes in government; he rightly thinks such a condition would be anarchy.

BUT CERTAINLY the so-called "common people," meaning "people," are beginning at last to think again about the long-neglected question which is at the root of all government—namely, the question of the nature and distribution of power.

Certainly they do not phrase the issue in such terms. They are not political philosophers. But they observe a fantastic phenomenon.

They observe that the world is on the verge of embarking upon something that nobody wants to do, for no purpose that can possibly be explained, for no end that can possibly be justified.

They observe that, by reason of a course of events that everybody has been watching and conscious of and few people worrying much about, the decision over the life and death of millions of people, the decision of whether the buildings they have built shall continue to stand, of whether the wealth they have produced shall be used to make human life more comfortable, beautiful and secure, or used for an orgy of universal destruction—this decision, god-like or satanic in its naked power, rests in the hands of one man.

THE QUESTION is asked: "Will Hitler conquer the world?" The answer is: "He is already master of the world."

He already has the power of life and death not only over the Germans but over Czechs, and Poles, and Hungarians, and South Slavs, and Englishmen, and Frenchmen, and Italians.

More remotely, his power stretches over the personal lives of every one on this globe. The economic life of every nation is affected. The last farmer and mechanic in Idaho or Indiana pays tribute from his work to contribute a bolt or a cog to another tank or another bomber—because of The Man.

HUMANITY WAITS for its doom or its release while The Man communes with himself and his cohorts. We read that he is not feeling very well and perhaps may take a long rest—and our spirits rise.

We read that he is in splendid form—and our spirits sink. The journalists, publicists, diplomats of the whole world concentrate their energies on nothing else whatsoever except reporting and responding to the moods, the whims of one man.

COMMUNICATION with him is impossible in any language. Words have lost their meaning. The British and Polish governments use the words "negotiate" and "mediate." The words in Nazi mean "capitulate," and The Man is willing to accept the capitulation. The acceptance of capitulation is called compromise in Nazi.

Since words do not communicate any meaning, the world resorts to signals. Children are evacuated from British and French cities; street lights are dimmed; the British Stock Exchange is closed; armies are mobilized; fleets are moved; millions of pounds sterling are transferred. It is all a gigantic wireless operation to get through to The Man an idea: There is still other power.

WELL! WELL! WELL!

From London Sunday Pictorial

Peals of happy laughter will help to drown the sound of bursting bombs at Beckenham, Kent, if there is a war. For, sitting in their A.R.P. trenches, 450 girls of the county school, Beckenham, will have nonstop variety. As an A.R.P. measure the girls have been ordered by their head mistress to learn three funny stories each, and to keep the stories secret in readiness for a war.

The stories will not be told until they get into the trenches, then the telling of the entire 1,350 jokes will begin. The stories must be of a suitable character, easy to understand, and they must be funny. Now the girls are begging their adult friends to tell them the best jokes they know. "I have got three beauties," one of the girls said. "They are so good that it is difficult, being on my honor, not to tell them until there is a war. I am bursting to let my chums enjoy them."

TRADE WITH IRELAND

From Toronto Star

Eire's first high commissioner to Canada has arrived in Montreal and is already suggesting that trade between the two countries should be increased. From Ireland's viewpoint the situation must be indeed an unsatisfactory one, for while she is 17th on the list of countries which buy Canadian goods, Canada purchases scarcely anything from her in return.

In the fiscal year 1939 Canada sold Ireland more than $3,500,000 worth of her products, including $2,500,000 worth of wheat ($4,000,000 worth the previous year). But the Dominion bought from Ireland less than $25,000 worth of goods, including $10,000 worth of wool and woolsens. It is lopsided trade, and no doubt the new commissioner will suggest ways and means of striking a more even balance.

VISITORS FROM DISTANT PLACES

From National Revenue Review

From returns made to the department by its officers, it is noted that 170 cars, hailing from 16 countries other than United States, were entered through Canada's frontier ports under 60-day touring permits during the month of June. Six of these visitors from distant lands came from the Philippine Islands, and one each from China, Straits Settlements, Dutch West Indies, Porto Rico, Venezuela and Brazil. Fifty-four cars came from Hawaii, 37 from Mexico, 27 from Panama, 14 from Cuba, 12 from the United Kingdom, seven from Alaska, five from France and two from Newfoundland. In addition to these 30-day visitors, 12 cars received permits to remain in Canada for a period up to six months. These were issued as follows: Cars from the United Kingdom six, Panama three, Hawaii two, Australia one.

REVENGE IS SWEET

From Maclean's Magazine

A young lady school teacher was recently stopped in Detroit for driving through a red light and given a ticket calling for her appearance in traffic court the following Monday. She went at once to the judge, told him that she had to be at her classes then, and asked for the immediate disposal of her case. "So," said the judge sternly, "you're a school teacher. That's fine. Madam, your presence here fulfils a long-standing ambition for me. For years I have yearned to have a school teacher in this court. Now," he thundered, "you sit right down at that table over there and write 'I went through a stop sign' 500 times."

South Africa Backs Britain

House Rejects
Hertzog's Motion
For Neutrality

CAPETOWN (CP)—Prime Minister J. B. M. Hertzog submitted the resignation of his government to Governor-General Sir Patrick Duncan today following his defeat in the South African House of Assembly.

By a vote of 80 to 66, the House turned down a resolution sponsored personally by General Hertzog and declaring South Africa would continue its present relations with belligerent European powers "as if no war was being waged."

A few minutes earlier the House adopted by a vote of 80 to 67 an amendment to the Hertzog resolution calling for a severance of diplomatic relations with Germany.

The amendment was sponsored by General Jan Smuts, Minister of Justice, and contained, among other things, a declaration of the "freedom and independence of the Union (of South Africa) is at stake" in the new war.

It was anticipated the Governor-General would call on General Smuts, one of the Empire's leading statesmen during the Great War, to form a new ministry.

Canadian C.C.F. to Debate War Stand

OTTAWA—Leading members of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation meet here tomorrow to discuss the party's stand on the international situation.

David Lewis, secretary of the C.C.F. national council, said today two items only were on the agenda:

A statement of the C.C.F. stand on the European war as it affects Canada; and a study of the organization and action that the C.C.F. will pursue for the duration of the war.

No Intervention Japan's Stand

TOKIO (CP-Havas)—Notice of Japan's decision to pursue a "non-intervention policy" in the present European war was handed today to envoys of the belligerents and of the United States and Italy.

The Asahi Shimbun explained this morning that the word "neutrality" was not being used because it was considered that in the course of Japanese action in China it might become necessary to regard one or more of the powers now at war as Japan's "enemy."

How Britain Declared War

Following is the text of Prime Minister Chamberlain's statement to the House of Commons after the declaration of war.

When I spoke last night to the House, I could not be aware that, in some part of the House, there were doubts or bewilderment as to whether there had been hesitation or vacillation on the part of the government.

If I had been in the same position as members and not in possession of all information, I might have felt the same.

We were in consultation all day yesterday with the French government, and we felt that the intensified action which the Germans were taking against Poland allowed of no delay in making our position clear.

Accordingly, we decided to send to our ambassador in Berlin instructions which he was to hand at 9 o'clock this morning (midnight, P.S.T.), to the German foreign secretary, which read as follows:

"Sir: In a communication which I had the honor to make to you on September 1, I informed you, on the instructions of His Majesty's principal secretary of state for foreign affairs, that unless the German government would suspend all aggressive action against Poland and were prepared promptly to withdraw their forces from Polish territory, His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom would without hesitation fulfill their obligations to Poland."

"Although this communication was made more than 24 hours ago, no reply has been received. German attacks on Poland have been continued and intensified."

"I have accordingly to inform you that unless, no later than 11 P.M., British summer time, today, September 3, satisfactory assurances to the above effect have been given by the German government and have reached His Majesty's Government in London, a state of war will exist between the two countries as from that hour."

No such understanding was received by the time stipulated, and consequently this country is now at war with Germany."

I am in a position to inform the House that, according to arrangements made between the British and French governments, the French ambassador in Berlin is at this moment making a similar demarche, accompanied also by a definite time limit.

The House has been made aware of our plans and as I have said, we are ready. It is a sad day for all of us, but for none is it sadder than for me. Everything I had worked for, hoped for, and believed in during my public life has crashed into ruins.

There is only one thing left for me, and that is to devote what strength and powers I have to forwarding victory of the cause for which we have to sacrifice ourselves. I can not tell what part I may be allowed to play, but trust I may live to see the day when Hitlerism has been destroyed and a restored and liberated Europe has been re-established.

The following is the text of Prime Minister Chamberlain's earlier radio proclamation that Great Britain is at war with Germany:

"This morning the British ambassador in Berlin handed to the German government a final note stating that unless, we heard from them by 11 o'clock (British summer time, 5 a.m., E.S.T.), that they were preparing at once to withdraw their troops from Poland a state of war would exist between us."

"I have to tell you now that no such undertaking has been received and in consequence this country is at war with Germany."

"You can imagine what a bitter blow it is to me that all my long struggle to win peace has failed."

"Yet I can not believe that there is anything more or anything different that I could have done that would have been more successful."

"Up to the very last it would have been possible to arrange a peaceful and honorable settlement between Germany and Poland, but Hitler would not have it."

"He evidently made up his mind to attack Poland whatever happened, and although he now says that he put forward reasonable proposals which were rejected by the Poles, that is not a true statement."

"The proposals were never shown to the Poles nor to us, and although they were announced in the German broadcast on Thursday night, Hitler did not wait to hear comment on them, but ordered his troops to cross the Polish frontier next morning."

"His action shows convincingly that there is no chance of expecting that this man will ever give up his intention of using force to gain his will."

"And he can only be stopped by force."

"We and France are today, in fulfillment of our obligations, going to the aid of Poland, who is so bravely resisting this wicked and unprovoked attack on her people."

"We have a clear conscience. We have done all that any country could do to establish peace. But a situation in which no word given by Germany's ruler could be trusted and no people or country could feel itself safe has become intolerable."

"And now we have resolved to finish it. I know you will all play your part with calm courage."

"At such a moment as this, the assurances of support which we have received from the Empire are a source of profound encouragement to us."

"When I finish speaking, certain detailed announcements will be made on behalf of the government."

"Please give your close attention. The government have made plans under which it will be possible to carry on the work of the nation in the days of stress and strain that may be ahead. These plans need your help. You may be taking your part in the fighting services or as a volunteer in one of the branches of civil defence; if so, you will report for duty in accordance with the instructions you receive. You may be engaged in work essential to the prosecution of war, or the maintenance of the life of the people, in factories, in transport, in public utility concerns or in the supply of other necessities of life; if so, it is of vital importance that you should carry on with your jobs."

"Now, may God bless you all and may He defend the right, for it is evil things that we shall be fighting against—force, bad faith, injustice, oppression and persecution."

"Against them, I am certain, the right will prevail."

As the bees buzz busily from bloom to bloom, they carry the pollen which makes the seeds fertile. But tobacco flowers have no need for bees; they do their own pollination. Which is fortunate for the Burbanks of tobacco culture, for they can tie a flowering head in a bag without condemning it to perpetual spinsterhood and so found a blue-blooded tobacco family without fear that a busy bee will mix the breed.

Since Columbus discovered the tobacco plant, hundreds of varieties have been developed, each with leaves having their own particular qualities of size, texture, flavour and fragrance. Turkish leaves, for instance, will lie in a baby's hand while a leaf of Burley would almost cover the baby.

Soil and climate do curious things to tobacco which is one of the world's most finicky plants. From the seed, which is the smallest sold commercially, to the cigarette—in growing, harvesting and curing—tobacco must be handled as delicately as a royal infant. Your favourite Imperial brand never varies in fragrance and flavour. This is because the Company constantly keeps an adequate stock of many varieties maturing for years in storage ready for blending by experts who have spent years in mastering the art.

87-YEAR-OLD VICTORIA MAN'S SUFFERING ENDS; PRAISES MOSBY'S TONIC

MR. A. R. SHERK, 87-year-old Victoria Citizen, Who Says: "For 8 Years I Was a Sufferer. But Now, MOSBY'S TONIC Has Changed It All. This is a Splendid Medicine."

Mr. Sherk of Gladstone Avenue, Says: "I Was in Distress With Gassy, Bloating Stomach and Bowel Constipation—Liver Sluggish, Torpid—Was Weak and Nervous—But Now, Thanks to Mosby's Tonic, I Am Relieved and Feel Fine Once Again."

"I never would have believed there WAS such a medicine! That is what people are saying about MOSBY'S TONIC all over Victoria—and throughout this entire section. This New, Scientific Formula is now being introduced to crowds daily in this city by a Special Mosby's Tonic Representative, known as The MOSBY TONIC Man, at The Vancouver Drug Store, Fort and Douglas Streets. Every week, MOSBY'S TONIC helps THOUSANDS (this is literally true) right here in this immediate vicinity. Some of the best-known residents of Victoria are coming forward daily with Grateful Statements, publicly endorsing this New Compound. Seldom in history, say druggists, has any medicine been so widely praised by local people.

Among the many local residents who praise Mosby's Tonic, none is more enthusiastic than Mr. A. R. Sherk of 1300 Gladstone Avenue, Victoria. Mr. Sherk is 87 years of age, and has lived here for 49 years. He is widely-known. Read what he has to say about this medicine. His statement follows:

Was Victim of Upset Stomach, Constipation

"I am a man who has always lived an active life, but about 8 years ago I noticed that I was losing out physically and as time went on I got worse and worse until recently my condition had become distressful," said Mr. Sherk. "My bowels were sluggish, slow-acting and very constipated; and my liver was torpid and sluggish and oh! how weak I had become. Besides all of this trouble, I had a badly upset stomach, and my meals would often cause such distressing pains that sometimes I was AFRAID to eat. It seemed like my food would ferment and form large quantities of gas inside of my stomach and this gas would cause a pressure way up into my throat, and sometimes I couldn't breathe properly. I was nervous and restless from my suffering and certainly got discouraged.

Acts Many Ways on Your System at One Time

MOSBY'S TONIC contains 20 ingredients. So it acts in many ways on your system at one and the same time. It brings forth gas and bloating from stomach; acts on the bowels, stimulates the flow of liver bile, and makes sluggish kidneys more active, and helps relieve rheumatic and neuritic pain when due to contaminated system from the sluggish action of these organs. In short, due to its many ingredients, Mosby's Tonic acts as a cathartic, laxative, cholagogue and diuretic, all at the same time. Weak, worn out people write us daily they get such a cleansing and invigorating from this medicine that they soon feel like different men and women. Due to the immense volume in which it sells, the Price of Mosby's Tonic is Reasonable. So don't hesitate. Get Mosby's Tonic—TODAY—and start taking it.

A Special Mosby's Tonic Representative, known as The MOSBY TONIC Man, is now at The VANCOUVER DRUG STORE, Fort and Douglas Streets, Victoria, daily meeting crowds of people and introducing and explaining this New Compound.

St. Matthias W.A. will hold their reopening meeting on Wednesday at 2.30.

Army of Helpless Retreats From London

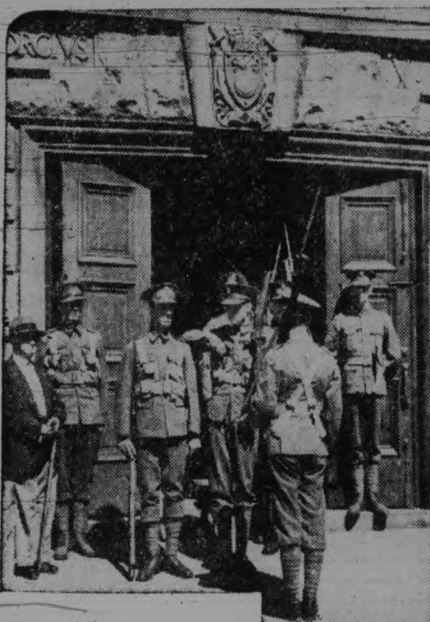

When war crashed out of the night upon Europe, marching orders came to Great Britain's "army of the helpless"—more than 3,000,000 children, women, invalids and old people—to leave their homes in 29 different cities and retire to the comparative safety of the countryside. Above, some of the thousands of schoolchildren, carrying gas masks and clothes, are massed at a London railroad station.

To rush the evacuation of millions of defenceless noncombatants from London after Warsaw was bombed by German airplanes, even trucks were pressed into service to carry hospital patients to the English countryside.

Immediately after Germany's attack on his country he called on British Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax, asked England's aid in accordance with the Anglo-Polish mutual assistance treaty.

RECRUITS FLOCK TO COLORS IN WARSAW—Far from demoralizing Polish civilians, Germany's aerial invasion resulted in a rush of recruits to the colors. Above, volunteers at an emergency "recruiting station" in a Warsaw park wait in line while women clerks enroll them for army service.

RUSSIAN AMBASSADOR, ARMY OFFICERS MEET HITLER—There was a modicum of joy in Germany when Alexander Schkavrtzeff, new Soviet ambassador to Naziland, landed by plane with a Russian military mission. Its presence strengthens hope of Soviet-German accord. Acme radio telephoto, radioed from Berlin to New York shows the Chancellor, as the new minister (reading, at left) presented his credentials to Hitler, shown in his first picture since his troops invaded Poland.

Drama of Events Moves Swiftly As Europe Plunges World Into War

Action of Allied Powers Carefully Timed

"Consequently we are at war with Germany... I am certain the right will prevail."

Since those historic words of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain rang around the world at 2.16 a.m. Sunday, Victoria time, the drama of events in Europe has moved so swiftly that despite all the efforts of radio, newspapers and other agencies for dispensing information few people have been able to obtain the complete picture.

Since then British warships and airplanes have been in action against Germany, the French have engaged the enemy on the Maginot Line, British passenger liners have been sunk, a German freighter captured, and Germany has continued its ravages in Poland with devastating bombing raids.

Prime Minister Chamberlain spoke to the world by radio only a few minutes after Great Britain's ultimatum to Hitler to remove his troops from Poland had expired.

As the King and Queen listened over the Buckingham Palace radio, the Prime Minister said:

"May God bless you all and may he defend the right, for it is evil things that we shall be fighting, against brute force, had faith, injustice oppression and persecution."

France declared war on Germany six hours later, at 8 a.m. Victoria time. The time lag, obviously carefully arranged between the allied governments, was interpreted in two ways, either as a means of giving Hitler one last chance to pull out of Poland, or simply because French troops are nearer Germany and could be put into action more quickly.

The time lag, obviously carefully arranged between the allied governments, was interpreted in two ways, either as a means of giving Hitler one last chance to pull out of Poland, or simply because French troops are nearer Germany and could be put into action more quickly.

DESTROY HITLERISM

Shortly after his radio broadcast Prime Minister Chamberlain went before the House of Commons and made the fateful declaration, saying:

"I can not tell what part I may be allowed to play but I trust I may live to see the day when Hitlerism has been destroyed and a restored and liberated Europe has been re-established."

In the debate which followed the government was fully supported in its decision.

David Lloyd-George, British Prime Minister in the last war, said:

"I am only one of tens of millions who will back any government in power to carry this struggle through."

Arthur Greenwood, speaking for the official Opposition, said:

"We know the worst. The hated word 'war' has been spoken by Great Britain in fulfillment of her pledge and her unbreakable intention to defend the liberties of Europe."

"We have heard more than the word 'war' spoken; we have heard war begin without the precincts of this House."

FREEDOM AND JUSTICE

Sir Archibald Sinclair, Liberal leader, said:

"Let me say that the world should know that the British people are inexorably determined to do what the Prime Minister said to end this Nazi domination and to build an order based on freedom and justice."

A faint voice of dissent came from John McGovern, of the small Independent Labor Party, who said:

"I regret that after 2,000 years, mankind Sunday morning should find the Prime Minister in the position of announcing that men are on the eve of living like beasts."

Winston Churchill, who a short time later returned to the cabinet as First Lord of the Admiralty, spoke of the solemnity of the occasion. He said:

"We must expect many disappointments and many unpleasant surprises, but we may be sure that the task which we have freely accepted is one not beyond the strength of the British Empire and the French republic... This is no question of fighting for Danzig and Poland. We are fighting to save the whole world from the pestilence of Nazi tyranny, and in defence for that which is most sacred to man."

PRIZE FOR POLES

The discussion in the House of Lords took a similar vein, with Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax echoing the expression of several others, that:

"I am confident the whole country will be as one in their admiration for the courage and resolution of the Polish government and people, and will be inspired by a feeling of determination to render them all the help in their power."

As Britain then turned to the practical tasks of war, reshuffled the cabinet and passed new war

ANOTHER 11 A.M. OF WORLD IMPORT—At 11 a.m., November 11, 1918, the World War ceased. Twenty-one years later, British crowds watched silently as "Big Ben" atop the Parliament Buildings in London, struck 11 a.m., and Great Britain was again at war with Germany, due to Hitler's failure to reply to the final British demands. To Save Principle of Freedom—King George

LONDON (AP)—The text of the address of the King to his subjects in all parts of the world Sunday follows:

In this grave hour, perhaps the most fateful in our history, I send to every household of my peoples, both at home and overseas, this message, spoken with the same depth of feeling for each one of you as if I were able to cross your threshold and speak to you myself.

For the second time in the lives of most of us, we are at war.

Over and over again, we have tried to find a peaceful way out of the differences between ourselves and those who are now our enemies; but it has been in vain.

We have been forced into a conflict, for we are called, with our allies, to meet the challenge of a principle which, if it were to prevail, would be fatal to any civilized order in the world.

It is a principle which permits a state in the selfish pursuit of power to disregard its treaties and its solemn pledges, which sanctions the use of force, or threat of force against the sovereignty and independence of other states.

Such a principle, stripped of all disguise, is surely the mere primitive doctrine that might is right. And if this principle were forces of all time and set the wheels of activity turning in every capital of the world.

CANADA ACTS

Canada acted quickly to stand beside Great Britain.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King broadcast an appeal to Canadians to "unite in a national effort," announcing that Canada will give "effective co-operation" to Britain. Parliament on Thursday will be asked to decide the best means of rendering this co-operation.

Supplementing preparations already under way for the anticipated emergency the government, at a hastily-called cabinet meeting four hours after war was declared, put into effect the defence of Canada regulations giving wide powers to the defence minister, and passed an order authorizing immediate creation of war-time prices and trade board. Censorship provisions were made and special emergency committees of the cabinet named.

In his message the Prime Minister stressed the fact that Canada, "as a free nation, is bringing her co-operation voluntarily."

"There is no home in Canada, no family, no individual whose fortunes and freedom are not bound up in the present struggle. I appeal to my fellow Canadians to unite in a national effort to save from destruction all that makes life itself worth living, and to preserve for future generations those liberties and institutions which others have bequeathed us."

Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of Labor, followed with a statement, urging the people to co-operate to prevent food shortage or confusion in distribution, and announcing that the war-time prices and trade board would be created. Rt. Hon. Ernest Lapointe, justice minister, and Hon. C. G. Power, pensions minister, delivered the two messages in French.

Other parts of the Empire rallied to the Motherland's support.

Australia's declaration of war was signed Sunday night by Governor-General Lord Gowrie, after Prime Minister R. G. Menzies had announced "Australia is at war."

The New Zealand Parliament today unanimously approved that Dominion's declaration against Germany.

SOUTH AFRICA SPLIT

In the Union of South Africa the cabinet was split on the issue, but the assembly in Capetown voted 80 to 67 to a proposal of Justice Minister General Jan Christian Smuts that diplomatic relations with Germany be broken.

In London, it was announced the government had accepted an offer from the Nepal government of 8,000 soldiers for service in India during the war.

The Duke of Abercorn, governor of Northern Ireland, sent the King a message expressing the "loyalty of this portion of your Majesty's Empire."

The registration of all Jewish men and women of Palestine between the ages of 18 and 50, to aid the British army in case of need, was announced in Jerusalem.

In India, Mohandas K. Gandhi, nationalist leader, conferred with Viceroy Lord Linlithgow on the situation.

In other countries governments rushed to stay neutral, if possible.

U.S. NEUTRALITY

President Franklin D. Roosevelt pledged himself in a radio speech to try to prevent a "black-out of peace in the United States," as he wrestled with the problem of American neutrality.

In the line-up of powers, neutral countries hastened to reaffirm their position while others, whose positions are still in doubt, were eyed for some indication of their future policy.

Chief question-mark was Italy, Germany's axis partner, which carefully avoided warlike gestures.

Turkey, member of the anti-aggression front and traditional friend of Soviet Russia, has indicated sympathy for Great Britain and France, but has not yet indicated her next step. Silent too was Greece.

Spain, considered a potential German ally until Berlin signed its nonaggression pact with the Soviet, remained noncommittal. General Francisco Franco issued appeals for peace.

At neutral Bucharest, Roumanian newspapers expressed friendship for Britain and France. Yugoslavia, Roumania's former partner in the little entente, avoided immediate commitments.

Hungary reiterated its determination to remain neutral. Bulgaria, next door, was silent.

A Swiss newspaper reported that Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Roumania planned to form a neutral bloc in southeastern Europe. A Budapest dispatch said Italy would be deeply interested in such an effort.

Measures to ensure Belgian neutrality were taken at Brussels, where Premier Hubert Pierlot formed a government of national union. Public opinion appeared strongly pro-French.

Finland, Latvia and Estonia, caught with Lithuania between Germany and Russia, maintained an uneasy silence.

Soviet Russia kept her own counsel.

The Japanese cabinet met in extraordinary session to weigh the European situation while the press counselled complete isolation.

Bishan, an East Indian, suffered a bruised leg and slight head injuries in an accident at Hillside Avenue and Douglas Street when he fell to the pavement after striking a car yesterday evening, according to a city police report. The police report said the car was driven by F. C. Slade, 2616 Dalhousie Street, and the Indian walked into it while lighting a cigarette. He was taken home after being examined.

WAR CURTAINS LABOR DAY FUN

Certain sports functions drew reasonable attendances, but Victoria, on the whole, spent one of the most sombre Labor days of its recent history yesterday as citizens generally stayed close to their radios to follow the progress of events in Europe.

The civic-sponsored children's sports at Beacon Hill attracted a large gathering and fair gates were reported at the bicycle races. Crowds also saw the speed-boat races at Cordova Bay and others took in featured softball engagements.

It was not, however, the traditional jubilant farewell to summer holidays, that other years have seen. The air of tenseness extended even to summer homes and vacation resorts of the lower island, with many picnic parties and campers paying more attention to the reports received on portable radios than to the enjoyment of the day.

Sunday services at Victoria churches were particularly well attended as families joined in prayer for speedy termination of the hostilities.

Fishermen Find Body at Mill Bay

Unidentified Man
About 70 Years of Age
Was Shabbily Attired

The body of an unidentified man, believed about 70 years old, was found lying on the beach near Mill Bay by Charles Decker and George Enoch of Victoria, yesterday afternoon.

An inquest and post mortem will be held late today at Duncan as Provincial Police sought to establish identity of the man and the cause of death.

The discovery was made by the two Victorians yesterday when they went ashore for lunch about 1 after they had been fishing. As they walked along the beach, just below the Rotary Fountain on the Island Highway, they found the body.

Police said no one in the vicinity had been reported missing and there were no papers on the body which would indicate the man's identity. It was not presumed drowning had been the cause of death.

The body was attired in shabby clothing consisting of a blue waistcoat, heavy underwear, a striped collarless shirt, slate grey pants and black boots.

Fred Dawson and Maxie Moran were convicted in the City Police Court this morning on charges of vagrancy and were each sentenced to 15 days' imprisonment.

NAVY EXAMINATIONS Effective Today

"Naval examination service will be put into force at the port of Victoria, Esquimalt, commencing at noon Saturday, September 2, in accordance with Admiralty notice to mariners No. 8 of 1939, and Canadian notice to mariners dated April 1, 1939.

"Examination vessel will be in the vicinity of William Head. Ship-owners and shipping agents are advised that as a general rule they should time the arrival of their vessels at the port for daylight. Delays will be avoided by giving immediate notice to the chief examining officer, H.M.C. dockyard, of the expected date of arrival of their vessels, with particulars of appearance and tonnage, etc. The particulars necessary should be given on form 11, a supply of which can be obtained from the chief examining officer of the port of Esquimalt.

"This will facilitate recognition by the examining officers, and allow speedy allocation of berths. Early intimation of the proposed departure of vessels should likewise be given to the collector of national revenue (customs division).

"Copies of the public traffic regulations governing the examination service may be obtained from the harbor master's office, Victoria. Vessels bound for Alberni and west coast ports must first be passed by examination steamer off William Head."

"All persons are warned not to approach government vessels at the drydock, H.M.C. dockyard, or Royal Canadian Naval Barracks, and joint service magazines properties, without good cause, as they render themselves liable to be fired upon in the event of their movements appearing in any way suspicious."

Cabinet Changes In Canadian War Parliament

Plans for Emergency Session To Be Discussed This Afternoon

OTTAWA (CP)—Plans for the emergency war session of Parliament opening Thursday are to be discussed at a cabinet council this afternoon. The cabinet will meet at 3.30 p.m. E.S.T. (11.30 a.m. P.S.T.).

Prime Minister Mackenzie King and his colleagues are preparing a detailed recommendation as to the policy Canada should adopt in the war entered into by Great Britain last Sunday. This will be presented for approval early in the session.

Mr. King already has announced his government will seek authority from Parliament to give "effective co-operation" to Great Britain, but he has not given any further details of the government's proposals.

It has been rumored widely that there will be some Cabinet changes immediately, including addition of former defence minister J. L. Ralston in one capacity or another. Lieut.-Col. Ralston has been in private law practice in Montreal since he retired from politics in 1935.

Possibility of the Prime Minister and his colleagues deciding to seek co-operation of other political parties in the formation of national or union government is rumored from time to time, but there is no evidence this is under consideration.

The present government has a record majority in the House of Commons and, under the statute, may delay a general election until the spring of 1941 if it desires. But for the present crisis there would have been a general election this fall.

It is considered possible the Prime Minister will carry on as at present until after the regular session of Parliament next winter, then either seek re-election in a straight party fight or move for a union government.

SPECIAL SESSION IN ONTARIO—Parliament Will Meet to Consider War-time Measures

TORONTO (CP)—Prime Minister Hepburn today summoned the Ontario Legislature to meet in a special session September 19 to consider possible wartime measures.

The announcement came shortly after Mr. Hepburn had sent a wire to Prime Minister Mackenzie King placing all resources of the Ontario government, including services of cabinet ministers, at disposal of the Dominion Government for war emergency.

Previously it had been stated officially a special session of the Ontario House would be held September 12 for the purpose of revising the Succession Duty Act. The Premier's announcement set the date a week later. Succession duties will be considered along with the emergency measures.

Col. George Drew, Conservative leader, has written Mr. Hepburn assuring full co-operation of the opposition and the Premier said today it was quite possible Col. Drew and other Conservative leaders would be invited to join the cabinet as ministers without portfolio. In this way they would be fully informed as to the actions of the government.

Slovaks Fight With Germans in Poland—BRATISLAVA, Slovakia (AP)—Wounded Slovak soldiers returning from the Polish frontier today said Slovaks were mixed with Germans as a second fighting line.

Javorina, a pocket-size area taken from Slovakia last fall, was given up by the Poles without firing a shot, they said, but they admitted the Poles fiercely contested Slovak-German advances elsewhere along the mountainous border.

Unofficial but well-informed circles here expressed belief Slovaks were placed between the German first and third lines to prevent desertions.

The Slovak minister to Poland, Dr. Ladislav Szatmary, broadcast this appeal over the Katowice, Poland, radio: "Slovaks, do not fight your brethren in Poland. Revolt against the German yoke. You have everything to gain and nothing to lose."

It was confirmed here that Szatmary has placed the Slovak legation in Warsaw at the service of Poland. (The minister apparently has been acting independently of his own government, which is under German control, Slovakia being a German military protectorate.)

Chester Morris, Lucille Ball and Wendy Barrie head the cast in this RKO Radio film.

In Dinghy and Snipe Classes

COWICHAN BAY—With perfect sailing weather and a spanking easterly breeze blowing, the annual Cowichan Bay sailing regatta was held at Cowichan Bay Sunday. Some 50 boats of all classes were entered.

There were two courses on which the races were held, one being from the Cowichan Bay wharf to Cherry Point, thence across to Genoa Bay point and then to finish buoy at Cowichan Bay wharf. This course was for the A, B, Spencer and star class boats.

The second course was from Cowichan Bay wharf, thence to a buoy half way to Cherry Point, thence to Genoa Bay point and back to starting buoy. This course was for the C class boats, 14-foot dinghies and other small classes.

The power boat race, the first event on the program for the Maple Bay Yacht Club challenge cup, was won by Fleet Capt. E. H. Gough of the Nanaimo Yacht Club in his Toquilat in the good time of 13 seconds early. This was a predicted time race for power boats and auxiliary cruisers. Second was Maher, skippered by R. Corbett of Seattle, time 50 seconds early. Varuna, captained by A. D. Taylor, was third, 112 seconds late.

The main event of the day was the star class boats in which there were four entries. The trophy in this event was the Tzouhalem perpetual open challenge cup, which was held by the Aquila of Victoria in 1935. This was lifted this year by Windor, captained by George Parson of Vancouver, in the predicted time of 1:37.30. Bob Day's Mamana of Vancouver was second, and Bud Day's Taseko, Vancouver, third. The Aquila, captained by A. C. Packford, Victoria, came in last.

The prizes were presented on the pier by Commodore Harold A. Jones of the Royal Vancouver Yacht Club, assisted by Cedric Gyles, fleet captain. Commodore Jones thanked the officials for their efforts in making the regatta such a success, also the contestants for their large turnout and enthusiasm.

Capt. Arthur Lane gave a dinner yesterday evening at the Cowichan Bay Inn for all commodores and old-time yachtsmen.

A protest was made by Robin Bush, captain of the Cienita, against the Klatawa for using a sprinker in the open boat class. The protest was not allowed, the judges ruling that by agreement beforehand, sprinklers would be allowed on all open boats in this class.

LONDON (CP)—Official announcement was made yesterday that the English Football League has ordered suspension of all football. Players' contracts automatically were suspended.

The Marylebone Cricket Club, governing body of the sport, announced cancellation of the tour of India by an English cricket eleven scheduled for the coming winter. Sixteen players captained by A. J. Holmes, Sussex amateur, had been chosen to make the trip and test matches were to have been played at Calcutta, Madras and Bombay.

Suspension of league soccer by the English league is likely to lead to similar decisions by the Scottish and Irish football authorities.

No organized professional football was played in the British Isles from 1915 until after the close of the Great War.

PATTON ONLY PRIZE
WINNER IN DERBY

George "Joker" Patton was the only Victorian to crash the prize list in the annual Port Angus salmon derby final over the Labor Day week-end, Stan Williams, one of the members of the local contingent, reported today.

Twenty-five Victorians participated in the monster two-day final, but many other nonfishers accompanied them across the Straits.

Patton won 100 gallons of gasoline for his catch, the only one made by a local entry.

Williams reported that fishing was poor, with fish weighing as low as 6½ pounds getting in the prize money.

Comparatively small salmon won the two cars, main prizes at stake in the derby.

Civilian Aid
Group MeetsMayor McGavin, Three
Reeves Form Special
Body to Arrange Plans

Greater Victoria's Civilian Protection Committee, styled on the British air raid precaution groups, at a meeting in the City Hall today, appointed Mayor Andrew McGavin and the Reeves of the three adjoining municipalities to a small committee to take the next steps necessary in civilian action in the present emergency.

The meeting, attended by delegates from Greater Victoria municipal councils, with their engineers and health officers, as well as the St. John Ambulance Association and the harbor master, left with the mayor power to call together his small committee pending a definite announcement of Canada's stand by Parliament on Thursday.

Duties that should be undertaken by the civilian forces were briefly outlined by John Baxter, secretary of the meeting, who derived his information from the federal authorities.

They included special police duties, organization of volunteer fire-fighting auxiliaries, regulation of lighting restrictions in the event of hostilities, establishment of First Aid posts, organization of repair crews under the city engineers and creation of debris removal forces.

H. W. Edwardson, secretary of the provincial St. John Ambulance Association, pledged his association to answer any calls for assistance and urged qualified First Aid men and women to register at the association headquarters at 103 Union Building.

Schools Open,
Mothers HappyGreater Victoria
Children Back to Studies
After Summer Holidays

Tanned, healthy children of Victoria were all dressed up in their best bib and tucker bright and early this morning, but they were worried.

Theirs was not a concern over the international war, but most of them were worried countenances over the prospect of another 10 months' at school.

Some were happy but, for the most part, school didn't hold bright prospects for them.

Mothers generally heaved a sigh of relief as the last hair was plastered down on Johnny's head and he went out the door headed for school. "Now for 10 months' peace" was the general opinion as they pictured afternoons free from such requests as: "Mom, I wanna go to a show"; "Mom, let's go to the beach"; "Mom, I'm hungry, gimme a piece of bread and jam, will ya?"

In the grade schools tiny tots were seen in mother's cars as they went their way to enroll in primary grades for the first time, while the swagger of some of the older ones was a sure sign that they were making their debut in high school.

With a definite air of superiority the senior high school students showed the "pookies" where to go and made them the subject of many opening day pranks.

Teaching staffs in Victoria, Oak Bay and Esquimalt were little altered after the vacation period, but in Saanich there were several internal alterations and a few additions affected.

Children who formerly went to Craigflower School were in attendance at Tillicum School, under protest, as a result of the Saanich School Board decision to close the former institution.

Their parents, however, were busy with plans which they hope will result in the reopening of Craigflower. These include the circulating of a petition to present to the Saanich trustees at an open meeting and the petitioning of the Provincial Department of Education for the appointment of an inspector to investigate the closure order.

WAR VETERANS
OFFER SUPPORT

The British Columbia provincial command of the Canadian Legion has sent the following telegram both to the Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Minister of National Defence, and the Premier of British Columbia:

"Kindly advise government that complete machinery and resources, British Columbia command, Canadian Legion, comprising 120 branches within province, placed at their disposal for war activities."

During the last few days in particular many veterans have offered their services, ready to serve in the job they are best fitted to do. There has been practically no calls for men to serve in the interior of British Columbia immediately, but during the week-end the Canadian Legion has supplied a number of veterans for guard duties in Vancouver and vicinity, and it is assumed that for some time there will be a demand for services of this kind. In addition a number of men have been supplied to the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways.

SIX RESCUES MADE AT THETIS LAKE

Six rescues were effected and 70 cases received first aid treatment at Thetis Lake during the summer swimming season, Robert "Bob" Smirl, lifeguard, reported to the chairman of the city water-board today.

Serious mishaps had been avoided during his term on duty, the guard reported.

In addition to providing protection for nonswimmers and those not particularly competent in the water, Smirl assisted between 75 and 100 in learning to swim and improving their strokes and coached successfully a class of six in life-saving. The latter passed their examinations for bronze medals and intermediate certificates during the season. As a result of his instruction, he received his first-class instructor's certificate from the Royal Life Saving Society.

Patronage at the popular city resort fell off this last week, prior to the closing of bathing facilities on Tuesday. Crowds ranging from 100 to 1,000 thronged there during the more favorable swimming weather.

Yankees Take
Double-headerNew York Ball Club
Moves 14½ Games in Front of American League

Philadelphia Athletics and Cincinnati Reds must have a fairly good impression today of how it feels to be victims of an air raid.

Under a strafing attack, the A's were felled twice by the New York Yankees 7 to 5 and 2 to 0 in Labor Day's most crushing demonstration. The Reds lost a full game in the won-lost column when St. Louis Cardinals bombed them 4 to 0 in the first game. The second was a 6 to 6 tie, darkness stopping it.

The Yankees, thanks to timely hitting by Frankie Crosetti and Red Rolfe and fine pitching by Marius Russo, are 14½ games ahead of the American League pack; but the Reds are only four games away from the pennant-hungry Cardinals in the National League. Bucky Walters and Paul Derringer aren't fooling when they wave those "help wanted" signs around.

Otherwise in the National League there are some fancy happenings. The Pittsburgh Pirates won from Chicago Cubs 2 to 1 and 6 to 3 as Max Butcher and Klinger elbowed effectively.

The New York Giants captured fourth place from Brooklyn by dumping the Phillies twice 10 to 0 and 7 to 6. Hal Schumacher hurled the first game and Billy Jurgens singled home the winning run in the nightcap.

The Boston Bees and Brooklyn Dodgers divided their twin bill, the Brooklyn taking the first 5 to 4, as Ernie Koy homered a potent run in the eighth. The Bees took the second when Sebastian Sisti punched out four of their 15 blows to lead them to the 5 to 2 win.

In the Junior loop, Washington Senators defeated Boston Red Sox 7 to 6 and 6 to 4, with Joe Yarnes and Pete Appleton taking the plaudits with spectacular twirling.

Bob Harris limited Detroit Tigers to five hits in giving the St. Louis Browns a 3 to 2 victory in the opener. The second was all square at 5 to 5 when it got dark.

The Chicago-Cleveland night affair went 10 innings before the White Sox could get the decision 5 to 2. An afternoon tilt was rained out.

H. Beasley Unhurt
As Car Destroyed

A car driven by Hal Beasley, St. Charles Street, was destroyed by flames but Mr. Beasley escaped uninjured on the Island Highway about Mile 22 early yesterday morning.

Constable Bob Ross of the B.C. Police detachment at Shawnigan, said a front tire on the car blew out, causing the machine to swerve into the bank and take fire.

Mr. Beasley suffered only a shaking up and was able to proceed to Victoria. He was driving to the city from Shawnigan Lake at the time.

At the Emmanuel Baptist Church tonight, at 8, Rev. J. L. Sloat, New Westminster, will speak on the Baptist World Alliance convention held in Atlanta City.

Mainlanders Win

Britannia Mines, mainland titleholders, won the B section British Columbia softball championship yesterday at Sidney when they defeated Champion and White nine of Cobble Hill in two straight games, 6 to 2 and 6 to 5. Champion and White defeated Victoria Young Liberals in the island playoffs.
